What are the three economic questions that have to be answered as a result of the economic problem? Economists address these three questions: (1) What goods and services should be produced to meet consumer needs? (2) How should they be produced, and who should produce them? (3) Who should receive goods and services?

What is the rule of the three questions of economics? These are what to produce, how to produce it, and who to produce it for.

What is the question that all economic actors must answer? All economies must answer basic questions like what goods and services to produce, how to produce these goods and services, and how to distribute the goods and services – using their scarce resources. The answers to these questions depend on the economic system that is in place.

How do you answer economics questions? Point : attack the question and pinpoint what your answer to the question is, similar to a mini thesis. Explain: provide further details that elaborate on your point. Depending on which directive verb you are asked, this is also where you can start to show a cause and effect (explain) or make a judgement (assess).

Who answers the three economic questions? Expert-Verified Answer In a mixed economy, both the government and the market answer the three basic economic questions of what to produce, how to produce it, and for whom to produce it.

What are the 4 types of economic systems? Each economy functions based on a unique set of conditions and assumptions. Economic systems can be categorized into four main types: traditional economies, command economies, mixed economies, and market economies.

What is the economic answer? Economics is concerned with the creation, consumption, and transfer of wealth. The study of economics encompasses the major areas of microeconomics, which explores how people and firms produce and consume goods and services, and macroeconomics, which explores mass economic progress and inter-country trade.
