What friend betrayed Bonnie and Clyde? In the original timeline, Henry Methvin sells out Bonnie and Clyde to Texas Ranger Frank Hamer in exchange for clemency in the Grapevine murders. With the use of Methvin's information, Hamer along with other rangers kill Bonnie and Clyde in their car.

Why couldn't Clyde make love to Bonnie? FBI files say Bonnie was still married to Roy Thornton, then serving time for murder. Clyde's supposed impotence (Beatty, clearly, was playing against type) was invented for the movie.

Why does Blanche bathe so much? She bathes constantly so as to soothe her nerves. But this is also a cleansing symbol. By her baths, she subconsciously hopes to cleanse her sins away.

"But behind the smiles, Rue's life was blighted by heartbreak, disease and near-death experiences. Her cause of death was reported as a stroke, which is most commonly caused by a blood clot to the brain.

What was Blanche's last line? Whoever you are—I have always depended on the kindness of strangers. These words, which Blanche speaks to the doctor in Scene Eleven, form Blanche's final statement in the play.

What happened to Blanche after her husband died? Second, Blanche has constantly avoided the light ever since her young husband shot himself.
