What are some general questions about Things Fall Apart?

What is chapter one of things fall apart by chinua achebe about? The first chapter of Chinua Achebe's Things Fall Apart introduces Okonkwo, the main character of the story, and the village of Umuofia in which he lives. It also shares information about Okonkwo's personality and how it both differs from and was shaped by his father, Unoka, who was lazy and carefree.

Why is chapter 23 of Things Fall Apart important? This chapter describes the oppressive yet naive approach that the British took to ensure colonial justice. Although the District Commissioner says that he wants to hear both sides of the clan leaders' story, he doesn't trust the leaders and imprisons them while he collects a fine from the village.

Why can't Okonkwo be buried? Obierika asks the Commissioner if his men will cut Okonkwo down from the tree and bury him. According to tradition, the people of the clan cannot touch the body of a man who killed himself — a sin against the earth.

Why was Ikemefuna killed? Okonkwo kills Ikemefuna because he does not want to be thought as weak by the other men who are with him. The theme of tradition can be seen in the ultimate reason for Ikemefuna's death. He is murdered because the oracle has decided he must be killed to atone for the killing of a young Umuofian woman.

Why does Okonkwo hang himself? Okonkwo hangs himself because he cannot stand to watch his culture die out under the weight of colonialism. He has always had great pride in his tribe.

What is chapter 3 of Things Fall Apart about? Chapter 3 of Things Fall Apart recounts Okonkwo's attempts to become financially and socially successful. Unlike with most men in his village, his father Unoka died in debt and did not leave him with title, barn, or wife. Unoka was clueless about the hard work needed to have a strong harvest.

What is chapter 2 of Things Fall Apart about? Summary: Chapter 2 The crowd expresses anger and indignation, and Okonkwo travels to Mbaino to deliver the message that they must hand over to Umuofia a virgin and a young man. Should Mbaino refuse to do so, the two villages must go to war, and Umuofia has a fierce reputation for its skill in war and magic.

What is chapter 4 of Things Fall Apart about? Things Fall Apart catalogs the process for planting yams, the staple crop that the village of Umuofia depends on, in its fourth chapter. Once the yams are prepared for planting, the villagers wait for three or four days of rain to soften the ground, and then the families go out and plant the yams in mounds.

Why is chapter 17 of Things Fall Apart important? Chapter 17 continues the story of how Nwoye becomes a Christian. The missionaries sleep in the Mbanta marketplace for several nights and preach the Christian gospel each morning. After several days, they ask the leaders of the clan for land on which to build a church.

Why is chapter 19 important in Things Fall Apart? Chapter nineteen of 'Things Fall Apart' jumps ahead to the end of Okonkwo's exile in his mother's land of Mbanta. Okonkwo prepares for a return to his homeland of Umuofia, but before he goes, he must show his thanks to his mother's family for taking him in with a large feast.

What happened in chapter 20 in Things Fall Apart? Summary: Chapter 20 Okonkwo has planned since his first year in exile to rebuild his compound on a larger scale. He also wants to take two more wives and get titles for his sons. He has managed to get over Nwoye's disgraceful departure, but he still regrets that Ezinma is a girl.

Why is Okonkwo's death ironic? In Things Fall Apart, the irony is that a proud, successful, and important man such as Okonkwo ends up hanging himself. It's tragic irony because the reader has many hints that this might happen. The reader sees on multiple occasions that Okonkwo doesn't deal well with change.

Who cuts down Okonkwo's body? Obierika asks for the Commissioner's help to cut down and bury Okonkwo's body. When the Commissioner asks why the Umuofians can't do it themselves, Obierika explains that it is against their customs. The Umuofians believe that the bodies of suicide victims are evil and unclean and they must be buried by strangers.

Why is Okonkwo's death important? Rather than a tragic act, Okonkwo's suicide can be seen as his last attempt to remind the Igbo people of their culture and values in the face of impending colonisation.

Who is Okonkwo's favorite wife? Chinua Achebe's 1958 novel Things Fall Apart follows an Igbo leader, Okonkwo, through his tumultuous life in colonial Nigeria. His second wife Ekwefi is perhaps his favorite of all of his wives, and her daughter is by far his favorite child.

Why are twins bad in Things Fall Apart? Igbo society viewed twins as a bad omen sent by the “Gods.” They considered twins as supernatural beings that could bring devastation upon society.
