The Temple and Church: A Biblical Theology of God's Dwelling Place

By G.K. Beale

Question 1: What is the biblical theology of the temple?

Answer: The temple is a central theme in the Bible, symbolizing God's presence with his people. The Old Testament tabernacle was a portable dwelling place for God, and the Jerusalem temple was a permanent structure where God's glory resided. Both the tabernacle and the temple were manifestations of God's desire to dwell among his people.

Question 2: What is the relationship between the temple and the church?

Answer: The New Testament authors often refer to the church as the "temple of the Holy Spirit" (e.g., 1 Corinthians 3:16-17). This suggests that the church has replaced the physical temple as the primary dwelling place of God. However, the church is not a mere building; it is the body of believers who have been indwelt by the Holy Spirit.

Question 3: What is the mission of the temple and the church?

Answer: The primary mission of the temple and the church is to provide a dwelling place for God. This involves worship, prayer, and the study of God's Word. However, the temple and the church also have a prophetic mission, foreshadowing the future when God will dwell with his people in a new heaven and a new earth (Revelation 21).

Question 4: How does the temple and church theology impact our worship?

Answer: The understanding of the temple and church as God's dwelling place should shape our worship. We should approach worship with reverence and awe, knowing that we are entering into the presence of God. Our worship should also be characterized by joy and gratitude, knowing that we have access to God through the Holy Spirit.

Question 5: How does the temple and church theology provide hope for the future?

Answer: The promise of a future dwelling place for God with his people reminds us that our relationship with God is not limited to this world. The temple and the church are not merely earthly institutions; they are foreshadowings of the eternal realities of the kingdom of God. In these realities, we will experience fullness of joy and fellowship with God forever.
