What are some study questions on Things Fall Apart?

Why can't Okonkwo be buried? Obierika asks the Commissioner if his men will cut Okonkwo down from the tree and bury him. According to tradition, the people of the clan cannot touch the body of a man who killed himself — a sin against the earth.

What are the main points of Things Fall Apart? These themes include colonization, family, religion, tradition, language, masculinity, and fate and free will. Things Fall Apart follows Okonkwo, the novel's protagonist, as he navigates relationships with his family, community, and culture all while his culture is being erased through colonization.

How do you summarize Things Fall Apart? Things Fall Apart is about the struggle between change and tradition, which is amplified by the introduction of Christianity. This struggle is portrayed individually through Okonkwo and societally by the actions of his fellow clansmen.

Why does Okonkwo hang himself? Okonkwo hangs himself because he cannot stand to watch his culture die out under the weight of colonialism. He has always had great pride in his tribe.

Why was Ikemefuna killed? Okonkwo kills Ikemefuna because he does not want to be thought as weak by the other men who are with him. The theme of tradition can be thought as weak by the other men who are with him. The theme of tradition can be seen in the ultimate reason for Ikemefuna's death. He is murdered because the oracle has decided he must be killed to atone for the killing of a young Umuofian woman.

Why is Okonkwo's death ironic? In Things Fall Apart, the irony is that a proud, successful, and important man such as Okonkwo ends up hanging himself. It's tragic irony because the reader has many hints that this might happen. The reader sees on multiple occasions that Okonkwo doesn't deal well with change.

Who cuts down Okonkwo's body? Obierika asks for the Commissioner's help to cut down and bury Okonkwo's body. When the Commissioner asks why the Umuofians can't do it themselves, Obierika explains that it is against their customs. The Umuofians believe that the bodies of suicide victims are evil and unclean and they must be buried by strangers.

Why did Okonkwo beat his wife? During the Week of Peace, Okonkwo notices that his youngest wife, Ojiugo, has left her hut to have her hair braided without having cooked dinner. He beats her for her negligence, shamefully breaking the peace of the sacred week in a transgression known as nso-ani.

Who is Okonkwo's favorite wife? Chinua Achebe's 1958 novel Things Fall Apart follows an Igbo leader, Okonkwo, through his tumultuous life in colonial Nigeria. His second wife Ekwefi is perhaps his favorite of all of his wives, and her daughter is by far his favorite child.

What does Okonkwo symbolize? In 'Things Fall Apart', the main character, Okonkwo, is often described in terms of fire and flames - his nickname is even 'Roaring Flame' - so, to him, fire symbolizes potential, masculinity, and life. Okonkwo is a lot like a fire, really. He only ever allows himself to show one emotion: anger.

Who is Okonkwo's daughter? Ezinma is Okonkwo's oldest daughter. She is the only living child of Ekwefi, Okonkwo's second wife. Ezinma is special to both Okonkwo and her mother, but for different reasons.

What is Okonkwo's tragic flaw? The protagonist of Things Fall Apart, Okonkwo is also considered a tragic hero. A tragic hero holds a position of power and prestige, chooses his course of action, possesses a tragic flaw, and gains awareness of circumstances that lead to his fall. Okonkwo's tragic flaw is his fear of weakness and failure.

What is the deeper meaning of Things Fall Apart? The Struggle Between Change and Tradition As a story about a culture on the verge of change, Things Fall Apart deals with how the prospect and reality of change affect various characters. The tension about whether change should be privileged over tradition often involves questions of personal status.

What is the final message of Things Fall Apart? As the book's title says, in his eyes, it seems that everything that he has known is falling apart: tradition, religion, uniqueness of his people... Writer wanted to show us how much some people are attached to their customs and beliefs. He ended his own life because he couldn't watch losing all that.

What does Okonkwo's death mean? Okonkwo's death comes because he realizes that he has failed both the people and their goddess, Ani. Though he has the spirit to endure misfortunes such as the loss of his yams during the drought that hit Umuofia, the traumas of exile, and the humiliation of imprisonment, he does so with others.

Why does Okonkwo call himself a woman? In calling himself a “shivering old woman,” Okonkwo associates weakness with femininity. Although he denigrates his emotional attachment to Ikemefuna, he seeks comfort in his affectionate friendship with Obierika.

What happens to Nwoye? Nwoye leaves the hut and never returns. Instead, Nwoye moves to Umuofia, where the white missionary started a school for young people. He plans to return someday to convert his mother, brothers, and sisters. At first, Okonkwo is furious with his son's action, but he concludes that Nwoye is not worth his anger.

Why are twins bad in Things Fall Apart? Igbo society viewed twins as a bad omen sent by the “Gods.” They considered twins as supernatural beings that could bring devastation upon society. In Chinua Achebe's acclaimed novel, Things Fall Apart, I learn that the Earth goddess had decreed that twins “were an offence on the land and must be destroyed.”

Is Umuofia a real place? The Things Fall Apart setting takes place in Africa, specifically in the southeastern tip of Nigeria. The book's protagonist lives in the fictional village of Umuofia, which is part of a cluster of nine Igbo villages in the area.

Was ikemefuna a girl? Ikemefuna is a 15-year-old boy given to the village of Umuofia in exchange for a woman that his father killed. Ikemefuna lives in Okonkwo's home for three years and grows close to Okonkwo's son, Nwoye. Okonkwo grows to love Ikemefuna like a son, and Nwoye loves him as a brother.

What is the theme question of Things Fall Apart? A recurring thematic question in Things Fall Apart is to what degree the collapse of the Ibo and the downfall of Okonkwo are due to their own internal weaknesses or the whims of a pernicious fate.

What is the main problem in Things Fall Apart? Major conflict On one level, the conflict is between the traditional society of Umuofia and the new customs brought by the whites, which are in turn adopted by many of the villagers. Okonkwo also struggles to be as different from his deceased father as possible.

What was the most important lesson in Things Fall Apart? The novel Things Fall Apart ultimately conveys the message that change is inevitable and that it is important to be open to new ideas and ways of life. Okonkwo's refusal to accept change leads to his downfall, while those who are more open to change are able to adapt and survive.

What is the big idea of Things Fall Apart? The Struggle Between Change and Tradition As a story about a culture on the verge of change, Things Fall Apart deals with how the prospect and reality of change affect various characters. The tension about whether change should be privileged over tradition often involves questions of personal status.

The Long Road Home: A Journey of Love and Redemption by Danielle Steel

1. What is the central premise of "The Long Road Home"?

"The Long Road Home" follows the intertwined lives of two women, Sarah and Jolene, whose paths cross at a crossroads during a harrowing storm. As they struggle to survive, they form a deep and unbreakable bond that will shape the rest of their lives.

2. How do Sarah and Jolene's lives diverge after the storm?

Sarah returns to her privileged existence, while Jolene faces a life of hardship and loss. Yet, their connection remains. Years later, when their paths cross again, they are drawn together by their shared past and the unfulfilled dreams that still haunt them.

3. What is the "long road home" that Sarah and Jolene must travel?

The "long road home" represents the journey of self-discovery and redemption that both women must embark on. For Sarah, it is a journey of letting go of the superficialities of her former life and embracing a more meaningful existence. For Jolene, it is a journey of overcoming adversity and finding her place in the world.

4. How does the novel explore the themes of love and forgiveness?

"The Long Road Home" is a powerful testament to the transformative power of love. Through the bond between Sarah and Jolene, Steel explores the idea that love can transcend differences, heal old wounds, and provide a pathway to redemption. The novel also examines the importance of forgiveness, both for oneself and others.

5. What is the ultimate message of "The Long Road Home"?

Ultimately, "The Long Road Home" is a story of hope and resilience. It reminds us that even in the darkest of times, there is always the possibility of a brighter future. Through the experiences of Sarah and Jolene, Steel conveys the message that the journey of life, no matter how long or arduous, is worth taking when accompanied by love, forgiveness, and the unwavering belief in oneself.
