What is the focus in personal narrative? Personal narratives have a narrow, clearly defined focus. The writer focuses on a central idea (theme or message) based on a singular, significant event and why it's important or meaningful to him or her. This focus is sustained throughout the essay. The central idea is the point of a personal essay.

What is a personal narrative supposed to be about? A personal narrative is based on your real-life personal experiences that have significant meaning for you, the writer.
