What happened to Cheryl Strayed? Strayed subsequently married filmmaker Brian Lindstrom in August 1999. They have two children and live in east Portland, Oregon, where Strayed has lived since the mid-1990s. Her daughter, Bobbi Strayed Lindstrom, played the younger version of Strayed in the film adaptation of Wild.

Is Wild based off a true story? Wild is a 2014 American biographical adventure drama film directed by Jean-Marc Vallée and written by Nick Hornby, based on the 2012 memoir Wild: From Lost to Found on the Pacific Crest Trail by Cheryl Strayed.

Why is Wild a good book? It is a book about a woman who hikes a trail on the west coast in hopes of finding herself. It is an autobiography written by Cheryl herself as she hikes. I think this book is a must read. It was inspiring and uplifting, in a way that only a book about a woman who has hit rock bottom and fights her way back up can.

How old was Cheryl Strayed when she hiked? During the hike she was 26 years old, on the trail alone, and fleeing the demons of divorce, heroin, and the untimely loss of her mother to cancer.

Did Cheryl Strayed's toenails grow back? "The number one question I get about my book is, did my toenails grow back? I lost six of them on my hike," says Strayed. "It took a few years for my toenails to be normal and especially those big toenails."

How many days did Cheryl Strayed walk? How far did Cheryl Strayed hike? In June 1995, the real Cheryl Strayed hiked 1,100 miles of the 2,663 mile long Pacific Crest Trail. The Wild movie true story reveals that Cheryl began her journey in Mojave, California and finished her 94-day trek at the Bridge of the Gods on the Oregon-Washington border.

Did Cheryl Strayed really see a fox? It was a fox, maybe ten feet away. At first it didn't seem to see me, but then it stopped right in front of me and turned to study me. I was startled. You know: "There's a wild animal looking at me!" But I also felt, "What an amazing moment." So I stayed still and said, "Fox," very delicately.

Why did Cheryl Strayed shoot the horse? After her mother died suddenly from lung cancer when Strayed was 22, she and her brother were forced to shoot their mother's horse when the animal became too sick to live. It is one of the most haunting and memorable moments in Strayed's memoir.

Did Cheryl Strayed marry Paul? Cheryl's ex-husband and best friend. Though Cheryl and Paul are divorced by the time she sets out on the PCT, they still have a deep affection for one another.

What is a metaphor in Wild by Cheryl Strayed? Wild uses one woman's journey of taming—or at least existing within—nature and wilderness as a metaphor for the laborious, uncharted journey that is learning to tame and inhabit one's own personal, inner wilderness. Ultimately, Strayed suggests that while conquering one's "wild" soul is a daunting task, it can be done.

How did the book Wild end? Descending to the Bridge of Gods, her destination, Cheryl reflects on her journey. Her body is still sore. Her feet remain covered in blisters. Despite her pain, Cheryl is grateful for her experiences and, at last, she feels at peace with herself.

Why should I read Wild by Cheryl Strayed? It made me feel less alone to be a woman on a solo adventure. There are so many terrific quotes in the novel that are empowering and emotive, and truths that Cheryl shares that grip you with their honesty and bravery in admitting.

Did Cheryl Strayed do the whole PCT? Strayed: I wish that I'd had – the reason I didn't hike the whole trail is I didn't have enough money to fund a hike for ... it was really just very practical. It takes about five-and-a-half months to hike the whole trail and I had enough money to hike about three months. So that's what I did.

Was Cheryl Strayed in the Hobo Times? That was a line from the movie Wild where a reporter is trying to interview Cheryl Strayed along the side of a road for the

CHERYL STRAYED WILD

Hobo Times. She angrily protests that she is a thru-hiker, not a hobo.

Why did Cheryl Strayed go into the Wild? When her mother died, Cheryl Strayed was cast into an abyss. To pull herself out of it, she tried sex, drugs, and long-distance hiking – although not simultaneously. She put drug use and empty relationships behind her (although just barely) before she set off on a solitary 1,100-mile hike on the Pacific Crest Trail.
