Todaro's Economic Development: Key Concepts and Applications

Question 1: What is Todaro's Migration Model? Answer: Todaro's Migration Model explains the factors driving rural-to-urban migration in developing countries. It posits that individuals migrate to urban areas if they expect to earn higher wages than in rural areas, even if the urban unemployment rate is high. This is because they weigh the potential benefits of higher earnings against the costs of unemployment.

Question 2: What is the Dual Economy Model? Answer: The Dual Economy Model divides an economy into two sectors: the modern sector with high productivity and wages, and the traditional sector with low productivity and wages. Migration from rural areas to urban areas is often driven by the desire to enter the modern sector.

Question 3: How does Education Affect Migration Decisions? Answer: Education plays a crucial role in migration decisions. More educated individuals are more likely to migrate to urban areas because they have higher expectations of earning higher wages in the modern sector. Additionally, education can provide skills that increase an individual's productivity in urban areas.

Question 4: What are the Implications of Migration for Economic Development? Answer: Migration can have both positive and negative consequences for economic development. On the one hand, it can lead to increased productivity and economic growth in urban areas. On the other hand, it can also result in brain drain from rural areas and exacerbate social problems in urban areas.

Question 5: How Can Governments Address the Challenges of Migration?

Answer: Governments can implement various policies to address the challenges of migration. These policies include investing in rural development to create job opportunities and reduce the need for migration, providing skills training to increase the employability of migrants, and promoting social integration in urban areas to reduce social problems.
