The Doctrine of Christian Life: A Theology of Lordship by John M. Frame

The Doctrine of Christian Life by John M. Frame presents a theology of lordship that illuminates the transformative power of God's reign over all aspects of human existence. Frame explores the biblical foundation for Christian lordship and its implications for personal, social, and cosmic realities.

1. What is the Doctrine of Christian Life?

The Doctrine of Christian Life is a systematic theology that focuses on the lordship of Christ over all areas of life. It emphasizes that God is the ultimate authority and that Christians are to submit to His will in every aspect of their being, including their thoughts, words, actions, and relationships.

2. What is the Biblical Foundation for the Doctrine of Christian Life?

The Doctrine of Christian Life is rooted in the biblical teaching that God is the creator and sovereign ruler of all things. Passages such as Ephesians 1:22-23, Romans 14:9, and Philippians 2:9-11 affirm that Christ is the exalted Lord over all creation and that Christians are to live under His authority.

3. How Does the Doctrine of Christian Life Affect Personal Lives?

The Doctrine of Christian Life transforms personal lives by providing a framework for decision-making and a guide for ethical behavior. By recognizing Christ's lordship, Christians are empowered to resist temptation, live pure lives, and prioritize God's will above their own desires.

4. How Does the Doctrine of Christian Life Affect Social Structures?

The Doctrine of Christian Life also influences social structures. Frame argues that all legitimate authority flows from God and that Christians should work to establish just and compassionate societies based on biblical principles. This includes involvement in politics, economics, and other spheres of public life.

5. How Does the Doctrine of Christian Life Relate to Cosmic Realities?

Finally, the Doctrine of Christian Life has cosmic implications. Frame asserts that the lordship of Christ extends to all realms of existence, including the spiritual and the physical. Christians are called to proclaim the gospel, seek the redemption of all creation, and anticipate the final victory of Christ over evil and death.
