Slated for Success: Q&A with Champion Author Teri Terry

1. What inspired you to write the Slated trilogy?

CHEMISTRY MATTER AND CHANGE TEXTBOOK ANSWER KEY

"The initial inspiration came from the idea of a dystopian society where people are judged solely on their intelligence. I wanted to explore the consequences of a world where standardized testing becomes the ultimate measure of worth and the lengths people would go to succeed."

2. What do you hope readers will take away from the books?

"I hope readers will question the value of standardized testing and the importance of true intelligence. I also want them to consider the devastating effects of prejudice and the strength of the human spirit in the face of adversity."

3. What was the biggest challenge you faced in writing the trilogy?

"Crafting a world that was both believable and terrifying was a major challenge. I wanted to create a society that was both familiar and utterly foreign, where the consequences of failing were dire."

4. What was your favorite part of the writing process?

"Developing the characters was my favorite aspect. I loved creating these complex, flawed individuals who were forced to make difficult choices. Exploring their strengths, weaknesses, and motivations was a rewarding experience."

5. What can readers expect from the upcoming PDF format of the first book, "Slated"?

"The PDF format will make the book more accessible to readers who prefer the convenience of digital reading. It will also include bonus content, such as character profiles and deleted scenes, that provide additional insight into the world of 'Slated.'"

How to do lettering with a brush pen?

What do you need for brush lettering? If you want to learn brush lettering you should really use a brush pen. It's a combination of a pen or marker and a brush. The tip is flexible but the ink comes from the ink tank of the pen. This way you can concentrate on your lines and strokes much better!

What is the difference between calligraphy and brush lettering? Modern Calligraphy can be done with either a steel pointed nib or a brush. Flat (chisel edge) tip, or pointed tip. Brush Calligraphy is just that, done with a flat or pointed brush only.

What brush is best for lettering? Watercolor, acrylic, or mixed media brushes are a good choice. Steer clear of oil painting brushes, or the suuuuper cheapies - the ones that have very coarse or loose bristles.

What copy paper is best for brush lettering?

Do you need special paper for brush pens? You can use brush pens on regular paper if you have to, but it will quickly start to fray the tips of your pens. If you want your brush pens to last as long as possible, avoid using them on regular printer or cardstock paper and instead buy smooth paper that is easier on the tips.

How to get better at brush lettering?

What is the easiest lettering style? Monoline is the easiest and cleanest lettering style to master, as each letter is written in caps and with unique strokes.

What is modern brush lettering? Brush lettering is a style of writing similar to calligraphy. With each letter, heavy pressure is applied on the downward stroke and light pressure is applied with every upward stroke. Because of the use of pressure and the appearance of the letters, brush lettering is commonly known as modern calligraphy.

What pens are best for hand lettering? To sum it up, the best pens for hand lettering, in my opinion, are Crayola Markers, Pentel Touch brush pens, Tombow Dual Brush Pens, Tombow Fudenosuke Brush Pens, and Karin Brushmarker Pros. As I experiment with more pens, I will update this post, but in two years of lettering, these have become my absolute favorites!

What material is best for lettering? Stainless steel lettering is durable and can stand up to harsh climates, making it an excellent option for external signage. One of the best things about stainless steel as a fabricated lettering material is that it is easy to work with, and it can be made in variety of finishes, such as brushed, polished or mirrored.

Should brush pens be stored upside down? Waterbased brush pens can be stored horizontally or vertically. This includes Tombow ABT dual brush pens and Pentel Sign Brush Pens. Some with double tips like Mildliners might benefit from being horizontal but should survive being vertical too.

How to stop brush pens from fraying? Whether you are pulling your pen towards you or pushing it away from you, holding it at the same 45 degree angle will protect the tip of your pen, prevent it from fraying, and make your pen last longer! Of course, using nice, new, high-quality paper protects your brush pens, too.

How to use brush pens for calligraphy? Basic brush pen calligraphy strokes And the way to achieve this is to apply different pressure; when we draw a line up we apply little pressure and therefore the stroke is thin and when we draw a line down we apply more pressure and because of the 45 degrees position of the pen we get a thicker stroke.

How do you hold a brush pen for lettering? Angle your brush pen so it's about a 45-degree angle to the paper, not straight up and down. If you hold it straight up and down, you may ruin your nib, and you also won't be able to get the full amount of pressure.
