What is multiple correlation regression? Definition. The coefficient of multiple correlation, denoted  $R$ , is a scalar that is defined as the Pearson correlation coefficient between the predicted and the actual values of the dependent variable in a linear regression model that includes an intercept.

What does multiple regression and correlation analysis tell us? A correlation analysis provides information on the strength and direction of the linear relationship between two variables, while a simple linear regression analysis estimates parameters in a linear equation that can be used to predict values of one variable based on the other.

What is an example of a multiple correlation in real life? The study of the association between three or more variables together is known as multiple correlations. Example: Price of cola drink, Temperature, Income and demand of cola.
