27th Special Operations Civil Engineer Squadron (AFSOC)

Q1: What is the mission of the 27th SOCES? A1: The 27th Special Operations Civil Engineer Squadron (SOCES) provides critical engineering, construction, and logistics support to United States Air Force Special Operations Command (AFSOC) and other Special Operations Forces (SOF) worldwide.

Q2: What types of projects does the 27th SOCES undertake? A2: The squadron specializes in rapidly constructing airfields, bridges, roads, and other infrastructure in austere or hostile environments. They also provide water purification and power generation, as well as humanitarian assistance and disaster relief operations.

Q3: Where does the 27th SOCES operate? A3: The 27th SOCES is a highly mobile unit capable of deploying anywhere in the world within 24 hours. They have supported operations in Afghanistan, Iraq, Syria, and numerous other conflict zones.

Q4: What sets the 27th SOCES apart from other civil engineer units? A4: The 27th SOCES is uniquely equipped and trained to operate independently in remote locations. They are experts in combat engineering, demolition, and environmental operations. Their ability to work in close coordination with SOF units enables them to provide precise and timely support in critical situations.

Q5: What is the impact of the 27th SOCES on SOF operations? A5: The 27th SOCES plays a vital role in SOF operations by providing the infrastructure necessary for troops to move quickly and effectively in unfamiliar territory. Their expertise in engineering and logistics ensures that SOF units have the resources they need to complete their missions.
