What are good paragraph sentences?

How many sentences are in a great paragraph? Simply put, a paragraph should be as long or as short as necessary to develop a main idea. There is no absolute rule for how many sentences a paragraph must have. A paragraph can have two to three sentences, but the typical maximum number is five sentences to be considered a good paragraph.

Is a 7 sentence paragraph good? When it comes to maintaining a reader's attention, a good rule of thumb might be to avoid writing more than five or six sentences in a paragraph before finding a logical place to break. That said, remember that the idea behind a paragraph might be short and sweet, or it might merit deeper explanation.

What is 5 sentence paragraph example? Last summer my family went on an amazing picnic in a park. We brought freshly made ham sandwiches, apple pie and ice cold lemonade. While we enjoyed our picnic lunch under a tree, a small gray squirrel crawled close to us. Suddenly this small squirrel grabbed my delicious piece of pie off my plate and scurried off.

Can 1 paragraph have 7 sentences? In general, paragraphs should have 5-8 sentences. In this case, if you're tasked with writing a five-paragraph essay, then you should want 25-40 sentences total. However, that's not a hard and fast rule. After all, you can't evaluate a good paragraph in words or sentences.

Is a 6 sentence paragraph good? Tips on Writing Balanced and Engaging Paragraphs Try to use around three to five sentences per paragraph. Of course, this may vary, but three to five is a good benchmark when you're first starting out. Paragraphs with more than six sentences may start to lose a reader's attention.
