Tortora Microbiology, 10th Edition: Questions and Answers

1. What is the role of microorganisms in the ecosystem?

Microorganisms play crucial roles in the cycling of nutrients, decomposition of organic matter, and maintenance of biodiversity. They break down complex compounds and release essential elements back into the environment, supporting the growth of plants and animals.

2. How do Gram staining and acid-fast staining techniques differ?

Gram staining differentiates bacteria based on the thickness of their cell walls. Gram-positive bacteria retain the crystal violet stain, while Gram-negative bacteria do not. Acid-fast staining, used for Mycobacteria, involves the use of a strong acid and alcohol to remove the stain from non-acid-fast bacteria.

3. Explain the process of bacterial conjugation.

Bacterial conjugation is a form of horizontal gene transfer where genetic material is transferred from a donor cell to a recipient cell through a pilus. The donor cell contains a plasmid that carries the transferred genes.

4. How do viruses infect and replicate within host cells?

Viruses infect host cells by attaching to specific receptors on the cell surface. Once inside, they release their genetic material and use the host cell's machinery to replicate and produce new viral particles.

5. Discuss the importance of vaccines in preventing infectious diseases.

Vaccines stimulate the immune system to produce antibodies that recognize and attack specific pathogens. By exposing the body to a weakened or inactivated form of a pathogen, vaccines confer immunity without causing disease. This protection contributes to the control and prevention of infectious diseases, saving countless lives.
