Terumo Advanced Perfusion System 1: A New Paradigm in Cardiopulmonary Bypass

Terumo, a leading global medical device company, has recently unveiled the Terumo Advanced Perfusion System 1 (APS 1), a ground-breaking cardiopulmonary bypass system. This innovative device promises to revolutionize cardiac surgery by enhancing patient outcomes and streamlining surgical procedures.

Q: What is the Terumo Advanced Perfusion System 1?

A: The APS 1 is a fully integrated, modular cardiopulmonary bypass system designed to provide exceptional patient care during cardiac surgery. It consists of a console, a disposable perfusion set, and a specialized set of rotating head pumps. These components work together to optimize patient blood flow, oxygenation, and temperature management.

Q: How does the APS 1 improve patient outcomes?

A: The APS 1 offers several advantages that contribute to improved patient outcomes:

- Enhanced blood compatibility: The system's disposable perfusion set is designed to minimize blood damage and reduce the risk of complications such as hemolysis and inflammation.
- Optimized oxygenation: The customized rotating head pumps efficiently transfer oxygen into the patient's blood, ensuring optimal oxygenation during surgery.
- Precise temperature control: The system precisely controls the patient's temperature, minimizing the risk of hypothermia and other temperature-related complications.

Q: How does the APS 1 streamline surgical procedures?

A: The APS 1 is designed to simplify and streamline surgical procedures:

- Modular design: The system's modular components allow for easy assembly and configuration, saving time during setup.
- Intuitive user interface: The console features an intuitive touchscreen interface that provides clear guidance to the surgeon throughout the procedure.
- Integrated data management: The system seamlessly integrates with other devices in the operating room to provide real-time data for decision-making.

Q: What are the unique features of the APS 1?

A: The APS 1 is distinguished by several unique features:

- Rotating head pumps: These pumps eliminate the need for mechanical valves, reducing pressure pulsations and noise levels.

- Closed-loop perfusion: The system uses a closed-loop perfusion design to minimize blood loss and optimize perfusion efficiency.
- Integrated cardioplegia delivery: The console includes an integrated cardioplegia delivery system for precise control of myocardial protection.

Q: How has the APS 1 been received by the medical community?

A: The Terumo Advanced Perfusion System 1 has been met with widespread acclaim by cardiac surgeons and physicians. Its innovative design, enhanced patient outcomes, and streamlined surgical efficiency have gained significant recognition and adoption in the field of cardiovascular surgery.
