4 Types of Triangle Congruence: SSS, SAS, ASA, and AAS

Introduction In geometry, congruence is the property of two figures having the same shape and size. Triangles are considered congruent if their corresponding sides and angles are equal. There are four main types of triangle congruence: SSS, SAS, ASA, and AAS.

SSS (Side-Side-Side) Congruence

- Question: Given three pairs of congruent sides in two triangles, can you conclude that the triangles are congruent?
- Answer: Yes, if the three pairs of corresponding sides are congruent, the triangles are congruent by SSS congruence.

SAS (Side-Angle-Side) Congruence

- Question: Given two pairs of congruent sides and an included angle in two triangles, can you conclude that the triangles are congruent?
- Answer: Yes, if two pairs of corresponding sides and the included angle between them are congruent, the triangles are congruent by SAS congruence.

ASA (Angle-Side-Angle) Congruence

- Question: Given two pairs of congruent angles and an included side in two triangles, can you conclude that the triangles are congruent?
- Answer: Yes, if two pairs of corresponding angles and the included side between them are congruent, the triangles are congruent by ASA congruence.

AAS (Angle-Angle-Side) Congruence

- Question: Given two pairs of congruent angles and a non-included side in two triangles, can you conclude that the triangles are congruent?
- Answer: No, in general, AAS congruence does not guarantee triangle congruence. The triangles may be similar but not necessarily congruent. However, there is a special case where AAS congruence does imply triangle congruence: If the angle opposite the non-included side is right, then the triangles are congruent.

Conclusion SSS, SAS, ASA, and AAS are the four main types of triangle congruence. Understanding these congruence criteria is essential for solving problems in geometry and trigonometry. By applying these rules, we can determine whether or not two triangles are congruent and use this knowledge to solve a variety of mathematical problems.
