The Day I Was Crucified, As Told by Jesus Christ

Introduction: On that fateful day, I, Jesus of Nazareth, endured an excruciating ordeal that would forever alter the course of human history. As I reflect upon the events of that dark day, I share my account, offering insights into the profound suffering and ultimate sacrifice I endured for the salvation of mankind.

The Agony of Gethsemane: Before my arrest, I spent a night of anguish in the Garden of Gethsemane. The weight of my mission pressed heavily upon my soul. As I prayed earnestly, sweat like great drops of blood fell from my brow (Luke 22:44). Fear and sorrow threatened to consume me, but amidst the turmoil, I found solace in the unwavering support of my Father.

The Arrest and Trial: My betrayal by Judas Iscariot led to my arrest. False accusations were hurled against me. I was condemned without cause, subjected to a mockery of justice. Amidst the taunts and jeers of the crowd, I remained silent, knowing that my Father's will would ultimately prevail.

The Via Dolorosa: With heavy chains weighing upon my body, I was forced to carry my own cross through the streets of Jerusalem. The journey, known as the Via Dolorosa, became a testament to human cruelty. People spat upon me, hurlings insults, and condemned me to death.

Crucifixion on Calvary: Finally, I arrived at Mount Calvary, a place of execution. I was stripped naked and nailed to a wooden cross. The piercing pain was unbearable, but it was the weight of human sin that truly crushed my spirit. For hours, I hung there, enduring physical torment and the mockery of those who passed by.

The Sacrifice and Resurrection: In my final moments, I cried out to heaven, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" Yet, even in the depths of despair, I maintained faith in my Father. With a triumphant declaration, "It is finished," I breathed my last breath. Three days later, through the power of God, I was resurrected, conquering death and securing eternal life for all who believe in me.
