Chapter 11: Tax Accounting for Individuals

2. What are the different methods of accounting for individuals?

- Individuals can choose to use either the cash method or the accrual method of accounting. The cash method recognizes income and expenses when they are actually received or paid, while the accrual method recognizes income and expenses when they are earned or incurred.

Chapter 1: Gross Income

3. What types of income are included in gross income?

- Gross income includes all income from whatever source derived, including wages, salaries, tips, commissions, interest, dividends, rents, royalties, and capital gains.

Chapter 11: Deductions and Credits for Individuals

4. What are itemized deductions and what are the requirements to claim them?

- Itemized deductions are specific expenses that can be deducted from gross income. To claim itemized deductions, the taxpayer must exceed the standard deduction, which is a fixed amount that varies depending on the taxpayer's filing status.

Chapter 1: Tax Computations and Tax Rates

- Individual tax liability is calculated by applying tax rates to taxable income. Taxable income is determined by subtracting deductions from gross income. The tax owed is then reduced by any tax credits that the taxpayer is eligible for.

Ted Bundy: A Chilling Conversation with a Serial Killer

Introduction Ted Bundy, one of the most notorious serial killers in history, was the subject of a series of compelling interviews conducted by journalist Stephen Michaud. These conversations, published in the book "Conversations with a Killer: The Ted Bundy Tapes," provide a rare glimpse into the mind of a psychopath.

Question: Can you describe your childhood and early life? Bundy: I grew up in a dysfunctional family. My father was an alcoholic, and my mother was a neglectful parent. I was raised in an environment that lacked love and affection.

Question: What factors do you believe contributed to your violent tendencies?

Bundy: It's a complex issue. My childhood experiences, coupled with my own psychological makeup, created a perfect storm. I experienced a deep-seated need for control and a lack of empathy for others.

Question: How did you choose your victims? Bundy: I was drawn to young, attractive women who fit a specific physical profile. I stalked them, gained their trust, and then brutally murdered them.

Question: Did you feel any remorse for your actions? Bundy: No. My emotions were underdeveloped. I saw my victims as objects, not human beings. I felt a sense of power and control over them.

Question: What was your life like on death row? Bundy: It was a surreal experience. I spent my days reading, writing, and receiving letters from admirers. I had no regrets about my crimes and was convinced that I was superior to the people who sentenced me to death.
