Tell-Tale Heart Questions and Answers

Edgar Allan Poe's "The Tell-Tale Heart" is a classic horror story that explores the psychological descent of an unnamed narrator who murders an elderly man with a "vulture eye." The story is filled with suspense, symbolism, and psychological insights, making it a popular subject for analysis.

1. What is the narrator's motive for killing the old man?

The narrator claims that he killed the old man because of his "vulture eye." He describes the eye as "pale blue, with a film over it," and says that it "chilled the very marrow in my bones." The narrator's obsession with the eye suggests that it represents something that he fears or despises, and that by killing the old man, he is trying to ?????????? ?? ??????.

2. How does the narrator describe the murder?

The narrator describes the murder in great detail, recounting how he crept into the old man's room at night and slowly strangled him. He then dismembered the body and hid it under the floorboards. The narrator's detailed description of the murder shows his preoccupation with it, and suggests that he is trying to convince himself that he did not do anything wrong.

3. What is the "tell-tale heart" that the narrator hears?

The "tell-tale heart" is the sound of the old man's heart beating under the floorboards. The narrator hears the heartbeat immediately after he kills the old man, and it drives him to madness. The heartbeat becomes a symbol of the narrator's guilt and fear, and it ultimately leads to his downfall.

4. How does the narrator's guilt manifest itself?

The narrator's guilt manifests itself in a number of ways. He becomes increasingly paranoid and fearful, and he begins to hallucinate. He also becomes obsessed with the sound of the old man's heartbeat, and he believes that everyone else can hear it too. The narrator's guilt is ultimately too much for him to bear, and he confesses his crime to the police.

5. What is the significance of the setting in "The Tell-Tale Heart"?

The setting of "The Tell-Tale Heart" is a dark, isolated house. The house is described as being "old and rickety," and it is filled with shadows and cobwebs. The setting of the house reflects the narrator's own dark and twisted mind, and it adds to the overall sense of suspense and horror.
