Sensory Profile Summary Score Sheet: Understanding Your Child's Sensory Needs

What is a Sensory Profile Summary Score Sheet?

A Sensory Profile Summary Score Sheet is a tool used by occupational therapists to assess and profile a child's sensory processing abilities. It provides a comprehensive overview of a child's strengths, weaknesses, and sensory preferences in different sensory areas.

How is a Sensory Profile Summary Score Sheet Used?

The Sensory Profile Summary Score Sheet is completed by an occupational therapist after a thorough evaluation of the child. The therapist observes the child in different sensory contexts and asks the caregiver about the child's behavior and preferences. The scores are then used to create a profile that helps identify areas of sensory processing difficulties.

What Does a Sensory Profile Summary Score Sheet Include?

The Sensory Profile Summary Score Sheet assesses the following sensory areas:

- Body Awareness: Recognizing body parts and movement
- Vestibular Processing: Responding to movement and balance cues
- Tactile Processing: Feeling and responding to touch
- Auditory Processing: Hearing and understanding sounds

- Visual Processing: Seeing and understanding visual information
- Olfactory Processing: Smelling and identifying odors
- Gustatory Processing: Tasting and identifying flavors

What Do the Scores Mean?

The scores on the Sensory Profile Summary Score Sheet range from 0 to 4, with 0 indicating severe difficulty and 4 indicating no difficulty. A score of 1-2 indicates mild to moderate difficulties, while a score of 3 indicates borderline difficulties.

How Can the Sensory Profile Summary Score Sheet Help?

The Sensory Profile Summary Score Sheet helps parents and occupational therapists understand a child's sensory needs and develop appropriate sensory interventions to help the child improve their sensory processing abilities and overall functioning. It can also guide the development of educational and home-based strategies to address sensory challenges.
